

HeatCheck is an App being developed around GTA 6 that is coming in nov, 2026

Idea	What makes it different	Viral mechanism	Monetization
HeatCheck	Daily gameplay challenges with video proof: “escape five stars using only a scooter,” “land the cleanest rooftop jump,” etc.	Shareable scorecards, streaks, friend challenges and creator leaderboards	Pro subscription, creator leagues, sponsored challenge seasons

The core loop:

1. The app gives the player a daily challenge.
2. They upload a 15–30-second proof clip.
3. AI checks basic requirements, while the community votes on style.
4. The app generates a vertical share card showing their score, streak and ranking.
5. Friends tap the card and attempt the same challenge.

That final step matters: every user result becomes an advertisement for the app.

Example challenges

- Steal a vehicle and lose the police without damaging it.
- Cross a neighbourhood without touching a main road.
- Re-create a famous trailer shot.
- Cause the funniest chain reaction in under 20 seconds.
- Complete a getaway while obeying every traffic signal.
- Take the best wildlife photograph before sunset.
- Survive a five-minute session using the worst available vehicle.

The challenges should emphasize creativity rather than cheats, exploits or grinding.

Business model

Free users: one daily challenge, public leaderboard, basic profile and watermarked share cards.

Pro — roughly $4.99/month: unlimited challenges, friend groups, historical statistics, custom cards and no watermark.

Creator — roughly $19–29/month: custom competitions, branded landing pages, moderation tools, downloadable submissions and Discord integration.

You could later sell challenge-management software to gaming creators beyond GTA VI, making the underlying company less dependent on one title.

Smart launch strategy

Before release

Launch a lightweight web app with:

- Trailer-detail challenges
- Predictions and theory competitions
- Leonida-themed bingo
- Crew creation
- Referral-based usernames and early-adopter badges

Avoid building features that require access to an unannounced game API. Build around screenshots, clips and manual user input.

Launch week

Switch immediately to:

- Daily gameplay challenges
- Clip submissions
- Friend-versus-friend battles
- “First discovered” achievements
- Creator-hosted competitions

Recruit 20–30 smaller GTA creators rather than chasing the largest streamers. Give each creator a private leaderboard and unique invite link.

After launch

Expand HeatCheck into an open-world gaming challenge platform supporting other games. Keep GTA VI as the acquisition engine, not the entire long-term business.

